A few more things to know

We'll confirm your eligibility

Members with a qualifying condition and more complex health needs can use their over-the-counter (OTC) credits for healthy food and utilities. We'll confirm if you qualify and send you a letter with your status and next steps. With or without a qualifying condition, credits can be used for covered OTC products and wellness support, like fitness items, in home services, weight management counseling, caregiver relief and more.

You'll receive 2 cards in the mail — each with a different purpose

Your membership comes with 2 easy-to-use cards: Your UnitedHealthcare UCard® and your member ID card. Use your member ID card when visiting a provider or filling a prescription. Use your UCard to access over-the-counter (OTC) products and earned rewards.

Talk with your PCP about referrals

Some network specialty services require a referral from your primary care provider (PCP).

What's the difference between a copay and coinsurance?

Copays and coinsurance are both ways you share the cost of care and prescriptions, but they work differently. A copay is a fixed dollar amount. You pay the same amount each time for the same service or prescription. Coinsurance is a percentage of the cost. The amount you pay depends on how much the service or prescription costs.

What is a deductible?

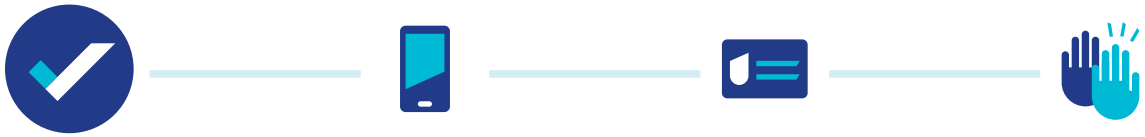

A deductible is the amount you pay for prescriptions and covered services before your plan starts to pay its share. You pay the full cost for prescriptions and covered services until the deductible is met. Some services, like preventive care, may be covered before you meet the deductible. There are separate deductibles for prescriptions and covered medical services. Not all plans have deductibles. Any applicable deductible amounts are listed in the Benefit Highlights.

Watch for your Annual Notice of Change (ANOC)

You'll get an ANOC in the fall. It explains what's changing in your plan for the upcoming year — including costs, benefits and coverage rules. Reviewing the ANOC helps you understand what's changing — so you can feel confident your plan will continue to meet your needs next year. If it's still the right plan for you, you don't need to do anything. Your enrollment will continue automatically.
