RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

Building on work initiated by UnitedHealthcare, the two organizations are working together to standardize how data is collected, processed and integrated regarding critical social and environmental factors that contribute to patient well-being.

(April 2019) UnitedHealthcare is advancing its collaboration with care providers and the government across more than 30 states to improve quality and lower costs with the UnitedHealthcare Care Bundles Program. The initiative builds upon UnitedHealthcare’s existing work with the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services’ Bundled Payments for Care Improvement Advanced program for fee-for-service Medicare, and expands the company’s bundled payment offerings to care providers participating in its Medicare Advantage plan networks.

(March 2019) OptumRx and UnitedHealthcare are expanding their innovative consumer point-of-sale prescription drug discount programs to apply to all new employer-sponsored plans, making medications more affordable and improving health outcomes. The existing program has already lowered prescription drug costs for consumers and strengthened prescription drug adherence.

(February 2019) UnitedHealthcare will increasingly leverage data from digital devices flowing into the company’s Nerve Center to help people enrolled in its Medicare Advantage plans more effectively manage chronic conditions. The Nerve Center is a digital platform and data hub that pulls data from a variety of sources, including claims, clinical and demographic information, and digital devices such as wearables and sensors, to build comprehensive health profiles for plan participants.

(February 2019) UnitedHealthcare is confronting the opioid epidemic by introducing oral health programs and policies for the public, dental health professionals and UnitedHealthcare dental plan participants. UnitedHealthcare is also collaborating with health care providers and communities, and using powerful data and analytics to prevent opioid misuse and addiction, tailor ways to treat people who are addicted and support long-term recovery.

(January 2019) A new Optum study finds that engagement in well-being programs is strongly linked to greater employee loyalty. The analysis conducted by Optum was based on a metric known as the Employee Net Promoter Score*, which helps businesses measure employees’ experience with their companies.
