

Health plans designed for affordability

UnitedHealthcare's Core benefit designs feature a smaller, more focused network of cost-efficient providers designed to deliver lower costs to you and your employees.

Freedom to choose

With the Core benefit design, your employees may choose their own health care providers and pharmacies from within the network. They are not required to choose a primary care provider or get referrals to see specialists. The Core network includes more than 588,000 physicians,¹ so employees may choose providers convenient to where they live or work. If they choose to see providers outside of the network, they will have a higher member cost-share. The highest level of coverage is offered for providers within the network.

Save with a focused network

With a smaller network made up of quality, cost-efficient doctors, providers and hospitals, Core benefit designs may offer savings of up to 10% while providing quality care.² Plus, preventive care in the network is covered at 100% of eligible expense.
